Our Promise

EPDs provide documented insight into a product's environmental impact throughout its entire life cycle. In an industry where sustainability and CO₂ reduction requirements are constantly becoming more stringent, this level of transparency is essential.

EPDs provide you with security.

EPD's make it easier to make informed choices. They help contractors, housebuilders, and developers to compare products and choose solutions that support more responsible construction practices.

The required environmental credentials offer the best possible foundation to ensure you make sustainable, futureproof choices - using premium quality products.
